Cloud Drive Network Accelerator is a free utility created by Cloud Drive Storage Service for Windows 7 and Windows Vista. It was designed in order to reduce the time spent accessing cloud data as well as to make accessing it, regardless of the Internet link, easier. It uses the available storage space of a target computer to cache information and serve it to other computers in the LAN. The actual storage is reserved for your personal files. For the most part, cloud storage services like Dropbox and SkyDrive offer the same basic services: you can upload, download and edit files. In a world where users are switching from the PC to the smartphone, it's also a good idea to offer a one-stop solution that can handle both scenarios. VirtualBox is one of the few services that is able to host both cloud storage and your virtual machines at once. It's a popular alternative to QEMU and VMWare since it doesn't require a bloated Hypervisor and is free to use. This means that your cloud storage is always accessible even when you're not using your computer, and it's great for situations like fieldwork where you want to keep your data safe and accessible. In addition to offering cloud storage, Dropbox is also a very popular option for virtual machine users. They integrate seamlessly with the host operating system and can share files in a variety of ways. The company supports every major OS and has very flexible sharing options. It's also free, making it a great option for first-time users. What makes this a feature-packed solution is that it's an "all in one" approach. It's like having all the functionality of Dropbox plus your cloud storage built into one package. Of course, the best solution is to have your files backed up to a remote service that you can access from anywhere. Google Drive is free and offers many advanced features. You can stream video, share files and get all of your information in one place. It's a good alternative to Dropbox and it's cross-platform. Anyone that is familiar with the DropBox service will be comfortable with this approach since it's like DropBox with a twist. With the collaboration feature, members of a team can share files with ease, add notes and star files for easy retrieval. If you have an Android device, Google Drive is the ideal solution. This service is like DropBox

When using the cloud to store data, it is very important to have an Internet connection that is alive at all times, in order to ensure the availability of your files. However, there are situations in which the Internet link may be down or unavailable for some reason and retrieving data from the cloud storage becomes virtually impossible. Cloud Drive Network Accelerator is a software solution that aims to make it possible for you to access that information at all times, regardless of the Internet connectivity. It is innovative because it will recover any bit of unused storage space and create a personal cloud locally. Thus, thanks to Cloud Drive Network Accelerator you will have a sort of backup that is always available from any computer connected to the same LAN, at home or at work. The requests to the cloud storage are also cached by this utility, using the free space that is not currently occupied with any data. An important mention that has to be made with regard to this tool is that it complements the Cloud Drive Storage Service and is deemed an optional component. It is also worth noting that in order to have Cloud Drive Network Accelerator function properly, a Windows Service has to be installed and deployed on the target machine, otherwise you will not be able to enjoy its full functionality. I have been using a new version of this software for two weeks and I must say that I have experienced a terrific improvement, especially when there are two computers attached to the LAN and, in this situation, there are several sessions of active Internet connections. Thank you very much for such a practical program! nbrochado 12/27/2018 Fast and stable. This application is very fast and stable. I have only found two bugs: 1) In order to use the internal IP address instead of the external, I had to enter the public IP of the server instead of the LAN. 2) It doesn't remember the port where I connected, so I have to reconnect when the cloud server is running. Otherwise, this program is excellent.
